Autism-Europe's 2020-2021 campaign

Every year Autism-Europe runs a campaign.

Autism-Europe will be running the same campaign for two years from 2020 to 2021.

Autism-Europe wants you to support its campaign.

The name of our campaign is "I can learn. I can work".

A campaign is a number of activities that help give people a message.

The message we want to give people is that autistic people can learn and work.

We want people to better understand autism so they can support autistic people in school and at work.

Women and girls with disabilities need help against violence when at home because of the Coronavirus.

The coronavirus is a new illness.

Click here for information about the Coronavirus.

We must stay at home so that we do not get the Coronavirus.

It is difficult for many people
to stay at home.

It is also difficult for many women and girls to stay at home.

This is because many women and girls face violence at home.

Violence is when someone hurts you.

Women and girls face more violence now because we all must stay at home.

Women and girls with disabilities
face even more violence.

Women and girls need help
against violence.

Many countries signed a convention against violence against women in Istanbul.

A convention is an agreement between countries.

Istanbul is a city in Turkey.

This is why the agreement is called the Istanbul Convention.

Click here for more information about
the Istanbul Convention.

Autism-Europe wants countries to ratify the Istanbul Convention.

To ratify means to confirm a Convention.

When a Convention is confirmed, we say it is ratified.

It will help women and girls who face violence.

And it will help women and girls with disabilities who face violence.

People with autism need help to face the Coronavirus

The Coronavirus is new illness.

It is also called COVID-19.

It can make you cough or have fever.

Many people already have the Coronavirus.

Many people already died of COVID-19.

The Coronavirus is now all over the world.

We must change some things in our lives so that we do not get COVID-19.

We must stay away from other people.

We must not shake hands or kiss other people.

We must stay at home.

We can get sick from the Coronavirus.

All this can be hard for people with autism.

So this can mean a lot of stress for people with autism.

This can be very bad for people with autism.

So people with autism need help to face the Coronavirus.

Autism-Europe gives you information about the Coronavirus.

This information is about what the Coronavirus is and what you have to do now.
