The Organising Committee of the prestigious Autism-Europe's 12th International Congress warmly invite the press for a special Press Day on 13 September 2019.

The Congress, organised this year in Nice by Autisme France in partnership with Autism-Europe, will bring together more than 2,000 people on the autism spectrum, parents, professionals, carers and other interested parties from 80 different countries from all over the world to sharing advances in practical and scientific knowledge about autism to as wide an audience as possible.

Our international congresses take place every three years and have become one of the cornerstones of the work we do to bring together autistic people, families, researchers and professionals from across Europe and beyond, so as to exchange state of the art knowledge and experiences. Where our congresses really shine out in comparison to others on the subject of autism, is that they focus particularly on social questions around autism, and practical ways in which we can structure our societies to ensure that nobody is left behind.

The representatives of the media interested in being accredited to cover the Congress should register in the website of the Congress.
